Emphasis Week Begins Sunday

By Chuck Jepsen

"Satisfied with Jesus" is the theme of Spiritual Emphasis Week beginning tomorrow under the sponsorship of the Religious Activities Committee.

Harold E. Bernhard, director of Religious Astivities at Iowa State Teachers College, and Arndt L. Halvorson, professor of Homiletics, Luther Seminary, will be the featured speakers.

Small group meetings have been stressed to enable students to have person-to-person contact with the speakers. It is hoped that small groups also will help foster a feeling of personal involvement among students.

DR. BERNHARD, a pastor of the United Lutheran Church in addition to his duties at ISTC, will give the message at Sunday morning worship service. His sermon is entitled "This Jesus."

Sunday evening, Dr. Bernhard will lead a discussion, "The Difference Christ Makes," at the Lutheran Student Association meeting at 7 in the Little Theatre.

Pastor Halvorson will participate in the remaining functions from Monday through Thursday. After graduating from Luther Theological Seminary, he studied at Columbia University, University of Washington and University of Edinburgh, Scotland. He served at various parishes throughout the United States before going to Luther Seminary as a professor in 1958.

PASTOR HALVORSON WILL LEAD the worship services in convocation Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Sub-themes for the convo speeches will be "Where God Meets Us," "When a Man Becomes Human" and "Seeing the Choices Which are Ours." Wednesday's convocation will be a liturgical service.

Following each convo, an informal discussion period will be held in Fuchs Lounge. Students may then take advantage of this opportunity to discuss various aspects of the messages.

ONLY ONE CHAPEL service will be held each evening, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Following chapel on Tuesday and Wednesday, Pastor Halvorson will be available for private consultations in Chaplain Herman Diers' office. Consultations will be held from 3:30-5 p.m. Thursday.

Climaxing the week's activities will be the communion service at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the chapel-auditorium. Pastor Halvorson will speak on "Behold His Hands."

A faculty reception for Pastor Halvorson will take place 3:30-5 p.m. Tuesday in the Faculty Lounge.

LUNCHEONS AT NOON Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will afford further contact between students and Pastor Halvorson. Wednesday's luncheon is open to everyone, while Tuesday's is for organization presidents, and Thursday's is for Student Senate.

Continuing the plan of small discussion groups, a series of informal chats will be held Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Tuesday's discussion will be in Wartburg Hall at 8:30 and Clinton Hall at 9:30. Wednesday the groups will congregate in Grossmann at 8:30 and Centennial an hour later.

The discussions, to take place in the respective lounges, will be led by senior Tom VanWyngarden in the men's dorms and senior Evelyn Helms in the women's dorms.

Dormitory Bidding Beneath Top Cost

Bids let Thursday for the third wing of Centennial Hall, women's dormitory, stayed well below the previously planned maximum construction cost.

According to Business Manager Herb Engelbrecht, the total amount of the bids, $371,763, was more than three thousand dollars lower than the $375,000 proposed ceiling cost.

HENKEL Construction Company of Mason City was awarded the general contract with a low bid of $293,000.

Plumbing and heating contract went to the Waverly Plumbing and Heating Company, which submitted a bid of $53,208. See Electric of Waterloo with a bid of $25,555 won the electrical contract.

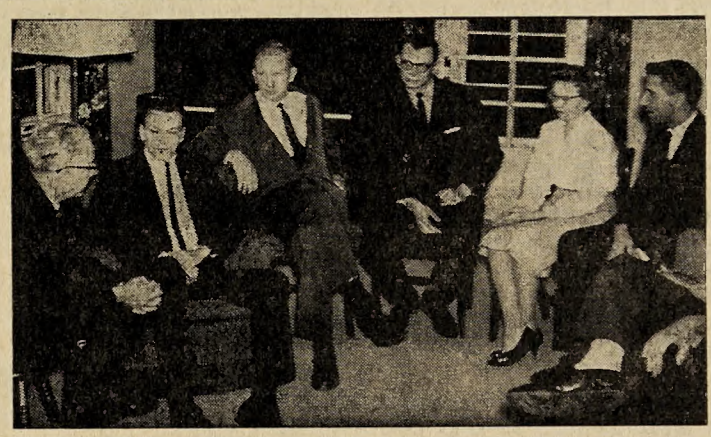
"The bidding attracted a lot of interest," said Engelbrecht, explaining that 22 firms were represented.

ALL COMPANIES awarded contracts have done previous work at Wartburg. Henkel Construction built Vollmer and Clinton Halls, Waverly Plumbing and Heating worked on the library, and See Electric did the wiring in Clinton and North Centennial Halls.

Construction on the dorm, which will cost a total of $425,000, will begin as soon as there is a significant break in the weather, according to Engelbrecht. It is hoped that the building will be completed during second semester next year.

The addition will be attached to North Centennial, forming a U-shape with the other two wings. It will house 138 women.

Woodburn and O'Neill, Des Moines architects, were recently engaged to draw up plans for the science building, next construction project at Wartburg.



NEW STUDENTS make themselves at home at Pres. C. H. Becker's home last Wednesday evening. With semester time, Wartburg faces undergo a change.

February 14 Is Announced As Deadline To Apply For Next Year's Scholarships

Deadline for students who wish to apply for scholarships for the coming year is Feb. 14, according to Mrs. Florence Hertlein, of the Scholarship Committee.

"Only those students who apply are eligible for awards," emphasized Mrs. Hertlein. "Application blanks may be obtained in my office."

WARTBURG OFFERS two types of scholarships for upperclassmen.

Approximately thirty funded scholarships ranging from $25 to $300 are available. Provided by individuals who set the award requirements, these grants are often geared to vocational goals or major fields.

The newest funded scholarship is a $200 award available to a business education major. The grant, which will be given yearly, was set up by a Wartburg alumnus.

THE SECOND MAIN type of upperclassman award is the class scholarship. About sixty grants of $100 apiece will be given for the coming school year. These awards are based on academic achievement.

The Scholarship Committee will process the applications immediately. Announcement of grants will be made at Awards Day in the spring.

6 Foreign Students From Wartburg Are Attending Des Moines Meeting

Six foreign students from Wartburg will participate in a Foreign Students' Weekend in Des Moines today and tomorrow.

Thls meeting is sponsored by the Iowa Board of International Education.

Wartburg's representatives will be Majilinda Zerrudo, a freshman from the Philippines, together with freshmen Victor Lachica and Noel Florendo from the Philippines; Ernest Abajah, freshman from Kenya; Jens Peters, junior, and Kristian Mueller, senior, both from Germany.

Each college and university will also send an American student as representative to this meeting. Wartburg College delegate will be Chris Leo, junior from Dubuque.

The main purpose of this weekend is to bring foreign students from all over the Midwest together for an exchange of ideas and experiences and to give them the opportunity to make new contacts with American people.

All students will live in homes of their American hosts. They will participate in a luncheon and are invited to the welcome party given by the Governor of Iowa. In addition, they will have the opportunity to talk with a high State Department official.

Coed At Top Of Castle Contest Heap

Senior Linda Mugridge won first prize in both prose and poetry divisions of the contest recently sponsored by the Castle, campus literary magazine.

Other winners were prose second prize, freshman Dick Kemming; prose third prize, junior Rosalie Froehlich; poetry second prize, sophomore Judy Seffer; and poetry third prize, junior John Anderson.

Judges for the contest were Miss Cora Ebert, Mrs. John Scholl and Richard Davis, all of the English Department. Names were stricken from the entries so that the judges did not know whose work they were reading.

The Castle will appear in the spring, according to Tom Maik, editor.

Senate Snatches 'Satchmo' To Play At Pops Concert

Wartburg will have a pops concert this spring.

This conclusion was reached after a long period of indecision by the Student Senate at its last meeting. The concert will feature Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong on April 13.

The contract for the concert engagement has been signed by Armstrong. However, he has the option to cancel it until Feb. 13.

Until this date, no further plans for the concert will be made. If the engagement remains definite, a pops concert committee will be chosen, according to Student Body Pres. Fred Mai.

EDITORIAL—

Let's Cut The Cuts

The start of a new semester is a wondrous thing. That rare phenomenon, a cut-free record, was possessed by every student at precisely 8 a.m. the first day. By 9 a.m. the phenomenon had vanished.

Figure up your cuts for the semester. Depending on your schedule, you probably have anywhere from 12 to 18 free hours ahead of you.

If you were attending a different school, you might have hundreds of free hours. Or perhaps you would have fewer cut possibilities.

According to the Wartburg College catalog, "when a student has three, four or five unexcused absences in a course offering three, four or five credit hours respectively, or two unexcused absences in a course offering one or two credit hours, the number of credit hours required for graduation shall be increased by one credit hour."

The restrictions have some merit. The cut system is comparable to a brace. It forces the unformed collegiate habits of incoming students on the road to graduation.

The number of students who would gulp so much freedom in a no-cut system that they would kill themselves academically is open to speculation. It is safe to guess, however, that there would be too many for comfort.

The present cut system also has a fringe benefit, although it may not seem so at the time. The open door to Oppie's office for the over-cut student may well be the open door to help for the disturbed student.

Still, Wartburg's present cut system has its drawbacks. Operating on the theory that proper restrictions are a training device, the system doesn't give the student the opportunity to put this training into practice.

In addition, a good student may get just as much out of a class even though he misses 10 times instead of the two or three times limited by the catalog. And some classes, unfortunately, aren't worth the time given to them by the cut system.

One way to retain the advantages of the present system while eliminating the disadvantages would be to give mature students who have demonstrated their ability in the classroom unlimited cuts.

For example, juniors and seniors who make the honor roll could cut as much as they liked as long as they continued to make the honor roll.

Drawing the line in this arrangement might be difficult. Who's to say that juniors and seniors are more mature than certain freshmen and sophomores? And determining a good student by gradepoint alone is a fallacy.

However, the wrong of omission that may be done to a few by the arbitrary drawing of lines would be more than offset by the chance for added growth given to others.

The effect of this system? The total number of cuts would probably not increase much. According to Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann, a good student seldom overcuts his classes under the present system. The student, however, would be allowed to make his own decision. He would be allowed to put his training into practice.

What was semester test week? It was simply a lot of dumb people trying to act smart.

AT OPENING PERFORMANCE,

'Whistle' Sounds Gay Note

By Craig Sathoff

Hilarity was the keynote of "The Silver Whistle," a play in three acts by Robert McEnroe which held its opening performance Thursday evening in the chapel-auditorium.

A large audience received the play enthusiastically. Vernon Lestrud, Speech Department, directed the Wartburg Players in the production. The final performance will begin tonight at 8.

The setting of the play, an old folks' home, provides the background for bumor, and wise philosophy concerning enjoyable living during the later years of life.

As the play begins, life is dull at St. John's Old People's Home. Finances allow only the basic necessities. The young and pretty matron of the home, Miss Tripp, played very capably by freshman Sharyn Purcell, tries to keep the spirit of the home gay.

For Mrs. Hanmer, played by sopbomore Kay Knopf, tbings are never light or gay. She suffers from chronic appendicitis, as well as chronic complaint. Miss Knopf, in tbe starring female role, is extremely effective.

Three other women are guests in the old folks' home. Sophomore Helena Humann plays Miss Hoadley, an incessant drinker (of alcobolic beverages). Miss Humann, in her portrayal of Miss Hoadley, shows no small amount of talent.

Junior Kathryn Koob stars as Mrs. Sampler, the most sentimental of the old women. The part is done so well that the audience falls in love with Mrs. Sampler, in spite of her ultra-sentimentality.

Freshman Donnie Jean Inman acts as Mrs. Gross, an exceptionally pious woman wbo constantly warns the other guests about hell. Although Miss Inman's speaking lines are fewer than the otber women's, she creates a stern mood and effective characterization.

Junior Don Ehlers is tremendous in his interpretation of Mr. Beebe, an aged resident of the home. Don's mannerisms, speech and carriage are extremely well executed in the portrayal of the lovable, though somewhat eccentric, oldster.

Mr. Cberry is done by senior Bob Moeller. Althougb Mr. Cherry is a less dynamic character than outspoken Mr. Beebe, he is enjoyable. Moeller carries tbe part well.

Nothing is quite the same at the home after the arrival of Oliver Erwenter, played by senior Don Claggett. If the play has moved somewhat slowly in the opening minutes, it gains momentum then.

Don is a riot in his portrayal of the man who brings new spirit to the old folks' bome. Although Oliver is 77, he is full of youthful vitality.

Oliver has the audience roaring with laughter as he describes Miss Tripp as "the tender bud among the cactus," and he tells the residents in all sincerity, "I still have my full sexual power."

The residents of the home fall in love with Oliver. He makes their life more worthwhile, something the Rev. Watson, manager of the home, has not been able to do. Senior Bob Rosenberg turns in a fine performance as the cold, harsh Rev. Watson.

Senior Harlan Stutheit is effective in bis portrayal of Emmett, Oliver's friend.

Oliver shows the residents tbe note of the silver wbistle. The note of the silver wbistle is synonymous with a true love of life.

Oliver warns, "The loss of love for life degrades man."

"The Silver Whistle" is a fascinating mixture of hilarity, sentimentality and common philosophy joined together for an altogether enjoyable evening.

VOICE OF THE CAMPUS

Student Decries Spirit Lack At Games

To the Editor:

Looking back over tbe past few weeks, it seems tbat we have begun a new fad on our campus. While the students were studying for semester exams, tbe dormitory councils installed "enforced" quiet hours.

Tbe students evidently have taken to them wbole-heartedly because that is the only comparison that can be made for the reaction of the crowd at the Illinois Normal basketball game Tuesday evening.

EVEN THOUGH THAT team does not belong to our conference, I do not feel that it should make that mucb difference in the spirit of our student body that people sbould remark, "This is even quieter than convo."

I cannot see any reason for the drastic difference between the spirit which a small group of students at the Upper Iowa game showed and tbe lack of spirit which was shown at the last two bome games, Simpson and Normal.

I do not feel that I can put tbe blame on tbe cheerleaders, for they do their job. Sometbing can be done about it, I am sure. Although I cannot list any concrete solutions I have at least one suggestion, and maybe others can add to it.

IT HAS BEEN suggested tbat maybe floors or even dorms could hold yelling contests. If this would help, we would be glad to begin it. I hereby propose that the men on Clinton II can outyell any other group of comparable size at any event whicb calls for sucb an outburst.

This is not the only solution, to be sure, but something must be done immediately, for we have the tougbest part of our scbedule staring us in the face and cannot let our players take this task on by themselves.

Fire up, wake up or wbatever it takes, but let us revive some of that mucb spoken of spirit we were formerly known for. The Wartburg family doesn't appear too well organized or inspired when it comes to spirit.

Tbank you,
Artbur Baker

Briner Applauded For Good Column

To tbe editor (and especially to K. D. Briner):

It is refreshing in this hotbed of archconservatism to read an enligbtened column such as the one produced by columnist K. D. Briner in the Jan. 14 issue of Trumpet.

After working on the paper for four years and reading it for two and a half more, I would say this particular column will stand as one of tbe classics of all time.

Anyone, such as H. R. Gross, who is opposed to the United Nations and calls it, in his words, a "Tower of Babel," cannot even be called a conservative. Reactionary is a better term. At least in the 20th century.

Many thanks, K.D., for an enjoyable piece of work.

Sincerely,
Duane Schroeder

LETTERS TO MAMA

Dear Mama,

I must admit that you certainly were right in suggesting that I major in social work here at Wartburg. My grades last semester weren't the best in the world, but I got loads of invaluable missionary experience among the natives in the Den. I guess grades don't really matter much — it's tbe old spirit that counts.

Before I get too wound up in some minor complaints, I'd better tell you what I'm taking next semester. Here is my schedule:

220: Slum Clearance
301: Advanced Slum Clearance
410: Major Errors of Other Religions
107: Drinkers, Smokers and Other Sinners
108: Dating, Necking and Moral Degeneration
212: Conversion Techniques in Revival Meetings
213: Erecting Tents for Revival Meetings

Now, I do have some complaints. First of all, this whole silly school thinks that you should take a bunch of impractical stuff like history, science and literature.

And, to add insult to injury, even the deans and the ministers seem to agree. I've been trying to explain to them, just like you always taught me, that "liberal" means "wicked." I'm sure I'll get them straightened out before long.

Another tbing, quite a few of the teachers mention nasty things like evolution and sex in mixed classes! I try not to be too upset, but if I ever have to take Health Ed, I may just lose control.

I know that man is bad, and "the reflections of his heart are wicked altogether," but you'd expect to find a little common decency in a place like this.

Also, I'm not too sure about this, but I hear there are some preachers who talk about having to make religious decisions and being broad-minded. Imagine a man of the cloth using a word like "broad"!

Well, Mama, I don't want you to think that it's all bad here. Most of the teachers are pretty open-minded, but at least there are lots of students who feel like I do. Besides, if things get too bad, I can always go back to Bob Jones U.

Your loving daughter,
Prudence Witling

Wartburg Trounces Iowa Wesleyan

Wartburg pushed its conference mark to 8-1 last night as it defeated Iowa Wesleyan 81-54 at Mount Pleasant.

Iowa Wesleyan's record now stands at 18 straight losses.

HIGH SCORER for Wartburg was Don Hein, who garnered 16 points. Jim Borcherding with 14 and Dave Brunscheen with 10 also hit in the double figures.

Next Saturday evening the Wartburg Knights take on Central at Waverly. In a previous encounter the Axmen came out ahead by a 79-65 margin. Central stands 3-6 thus far in the conference wars. Central's greatest weakness this year is the loss of last year's star John Carle, who graduated.

Tuesday night the Knights were defeated by the Redmen of Illinois State by a 75-63 score. Although Wartburg took the opening tip and jumped off to an early lead, the team was never really in contention as the visitors quickly closed the gap and went ahead.

THE REDBIRDS featured a balanced scoring attack with four men making the double figures. High man for the Knights was Don Hein with 29 followed by Dave Brunscheen with 10.

In the preliminary game the Squires were defeated by the hot-shooting West Side Billiards from Waterloo, 86-65.

IN ACTION DIRECTLY preceding the semester break the Knights came out on the winning side of the ledger, winning two and dropping one.

On the Friday before exams the Knights took it on the chin, bowing to Simpson and a sagging zone defense by a 72-63 score. This was Wartburg's first conference loss of the season and threw it into a first-place tie with Luther.

In the battle of the conference's top two point-makers, Redmen's Bob Tidgren topped Wartburg's Don Hein, 23 to 18. Both fouled out late in the last half.

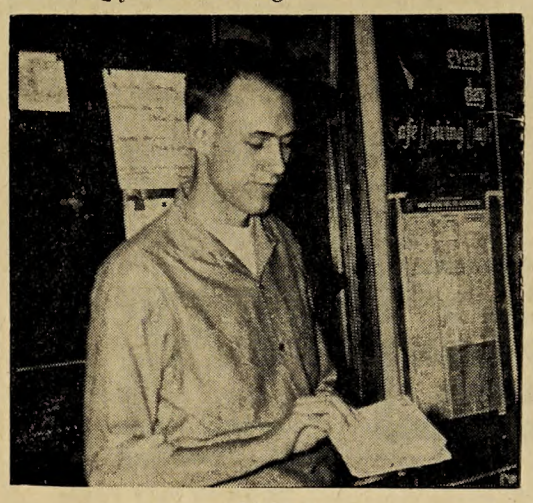
AS SPEECH MAJOR,

Hein Makes Basketball Talk

By John Stumme

In Don Hein Wartburg has one of the state's finest small college cagers.

Don, only a junior, has had a great hardcourt career and has the potential to be one of the greatest basketball players in the history of Wartburg.



Hein

Don's high school days were full of personal and team honors.

In hitting the hoop at a 20-point clip, Hein led his Waverly Go-Hawks to a conference championship and a second-place finish in the 1958 State Tournament.

In the semi-final game of the state tourney, Don experienced his greatest basketball thrill.

"We were playing Sioux City and we were down 10 points with around three minutes left to play. The crowd was starting to leave. But we fought back and beat them in an overtime."

In that year, his senior year, this Waverly favorite was elected to the all-conference team and to the first All-State Squad.

After enrolling at Iowa State for a semester, Hein transferred to Wartburg, where he sat out a semester.

Then last year the big forward became the Knights' highest scoring sophomore in history as he poured in 447 points.

That was good enough for an 18-point average and a berth on the All-Iowa Conference Second Team.

Hein, who gets most of his counters on jump shots from 15 to 20 feet out, had his greatest output last year against arch-rival Luther when he connected on 39 points, two short of the school record.

This year's highest total points in one game was 37 against Buena Vista.

Although he stands 6 feet 5 inches, Don handles himself like a six-footer. He possesses the speed and shooting ability to hit and drive with the best of the backcourt men.

But underneath the boards, Hein uses his 190-pound frame to the best advantage, tipping and rebounding as though he had played center all his life.

It is just as dangerous to foul Hein as to let him shoot his deadly jump shot, for he rarely misses from the line.

Last year he set a school free-throw percentage mark, hitting on 73 of 84 gift shots for an 88 percentage.

Don also holds the longest string of consecutive free tosses, hitting on 41 before missing.

Hein does not believe that this year's team is as good as last year's.

"We lost two big men and so we don't have as big an inside threat," he said.

"It's going to be a pretty tough race between Parsons, Luther, Wartburg and Upper Iowa," he added.

Hein also hurls for the Knight baseball squad. He lettered twice in this spring sport in high school (in addition to a letter in football and two in basketball) and last year was awarded a college monogram for his work on the mound.

Hein, a speech major who plans to enter radio and television, will continue to speak trouble on the hardcourt for Wartburg's foes for another year and a half.

Semester Brings Athletic Changes

This week several changes occurred on the basketball and wrestling teams.

Ax Bundgaard's basketball squad lost two and gained two. Bob Harken and Reuben Drefs were lost to the squad, Harken due to academic difficulty and Drefs for personal reasons.

Leon Scbade and Gary Medlang became eligible for varsity competition after playing the first semester with the freshman squad.

The wrestling team, however, did not fare so well. Norm Johansen's squad lost three due to ineligibility and one dropped out of school. Jim Mueller, Clarence Coleman and Chuck Ager were declared ineligible while Dave Kraft left school.

HAATS' STUFF

By LaVonne

The Republicans have graciously accepted the fact that Nixon will not be president; no more ships have been "borrowed" (as of Wednesday); and Wartburg's semester exams are in the past. These were probably the top topics of discussion the past month.

Now we begin February with the possibility of even more important news.

The Valentine dance, "Valentine Carousel," will probably interest only the campus community, but nevertheless it is news. The sophomore class is sponsoring the event Friday, Feb. 10. The dance will be held in the Knights Gym, beginning at 8 p.m.

"An expensive evening" will not be a good excuse to stay away from the dance, fellows. The tickets are only $1.25 per couple, and flowers are out of it for tbis time. Music will be furnished by the Eddie Skay combo.

• • • •

Members of Alpha Chi will be interested in this item. A meeting is scheduled for next Tuesday at 7 p.m. The group is to meet in Lutber Hall, Room 102.

The program will be a panel discussion on "The Concept of a Christian Liberal Education." Dean of Faculty J. O. Chellevold and Miss Erna Moehl, English Department, will be the faculty representatives. Senior Joanne Mammen will take the student viewpoint.

In the future Alpha Chi will have an open meeting in order that students who are not members may attend its discussions. More of this later.

• • • •

On Sunday, Feb. 5, Pi Sigma will take in new members. Initiation will be held in North Centennial Lounge at 2 p.m. Old members are also asked to be present.

Camera Club meets Thursday in Room 107 Luther Hall. Two movies on film developing will be shown.

Remember tbat tonight is the last night to see the Wartburg performance of the play "The Silver Whistle."

News Bureau Director Duane Scbroeder is tbe author of an article featuring Wartburg College wbicb will appear in the February issue of "Coach and Athlete" magazine.

Members Attend Education Confab

Three Student Education Association members from Wartburg attended the 13th annual Delegate Council of the Student ISEA in Des Moines last Thursday.

Those who attended were delegate Katherine Grimm, alternate Janice Kriesel and Miss Stella M. Austerud.

Tbe tbree attended as representatives of Kappa Delta Kappa chapter of the SEA on campus.

Official business during the first session was the presentation of candidates for state president and vice president.

Topics of importance to all student ISEA chapters were discussed in individual groups at the meeting.

Debaters Battle At Dubuque Today

Wartburg debaters traveled to the University of Dubuque at Dubuque today.

A team of junior Al Putz and freshman Jim Riesberg are debating negative while sophomore Nancy Gaylor and junior Meta Fokkena debate affirmative.

About twelve schools are expected to attend the meet. The question is "Should the federal government provide compulsory health insurance for its citizens?"

Valentine Carousel Coming Up Friday

"Valentine Carousel" is the theme of a dance to be sponsored Friday by the sophomore class.

Senior Eddie Skay and his combo will provide music in Knights Gymnasium from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Althougb the dance is a dress-up affair, no flowers are necessary, according to Jim Stoebner, general chairman.

"The decorations, following a carousel design, will be something new for Wartburg," said Stoebner.

Tickets will go on sale in tbe supper line next week.
